Florida Attorney General - FIPA Complaint

The Florida Attorney General enforces the Florida Information Protection Act (s. 501.171, Fla. Stat.). FIPA requires covered entities to take reasonable measures to protect personal information and to notify individuals within 30 days of a breach.

FILE ONLINE:

1. Go to myfloridalegal.com > File a Complaint.
2. Topic: "Data breach / identity theft."
3. Respondent: Rotstein & Shiffman, P.A. (rotstein-shiffman.com), Fort Lauderdale, Florida
4. Suggested facts:

"The firm suffered a breach of its client records system. Confidential client documents, including Social Security numbers and identity documents of Florida residents, were exfiltrated and published online. The firm failed to maintain reasonable security procedures and failed to provide the notice required by s. 501.171, Fla. Stat., within 30 days."

5. Attach evidence (list of exposed file types, screenshots, records found about you).

The AG may investigate, demand remediation, and impose penalties of up to $500,000 for repeated violations.
